

This October, Albany High cosmetology students are helping to fight breast cancer.

Throughout October, the senior students of the Abrookin Career and Technical Center Cosmetology Program will be making wigs for Breast Cancer Awareness Month. These wigs will be made in class and donated to women experiencing hair loss due to cancer treatments.

Please note that in-person consultations are required before any services can be provided. For an appointment with one of our students, or to learn how you can donate, call (518) 475-6412.
